Message from the Guest Editors

Dear Colleagues,

We welcome theoretical, conceptual, and empirical papers that focus on clustering and the formation of networks around circular and new business models. Papers with a great variety of methodologies (e.g., literature review, qualitative and quantitative research methods), a large variety of research fields (e.g., entrepreneurship, environmental studies, geography, management, economics, social sciences, etc.), and a wide scope of domains (e.g., energy, health, agriculture, finance, industry, retail, etc.) are admissible. We encourage participants of the New Business Models Conference in Halmstad, Sweden, taking place from 9th June to 11th June 2021, to submit their contributions for publication. Scholars and practitioners should elaborate on and contribute, but not limit themselves, to the following research questions concerning networks and the clustering of circular and new business models:

Sectoral clustering; Thematic clustering; Entrepreneurial ecosystems; Circularity under the umbrella of sustainability; Sustainable networks; Social capital theory; Location theory; Agglomeration economies
